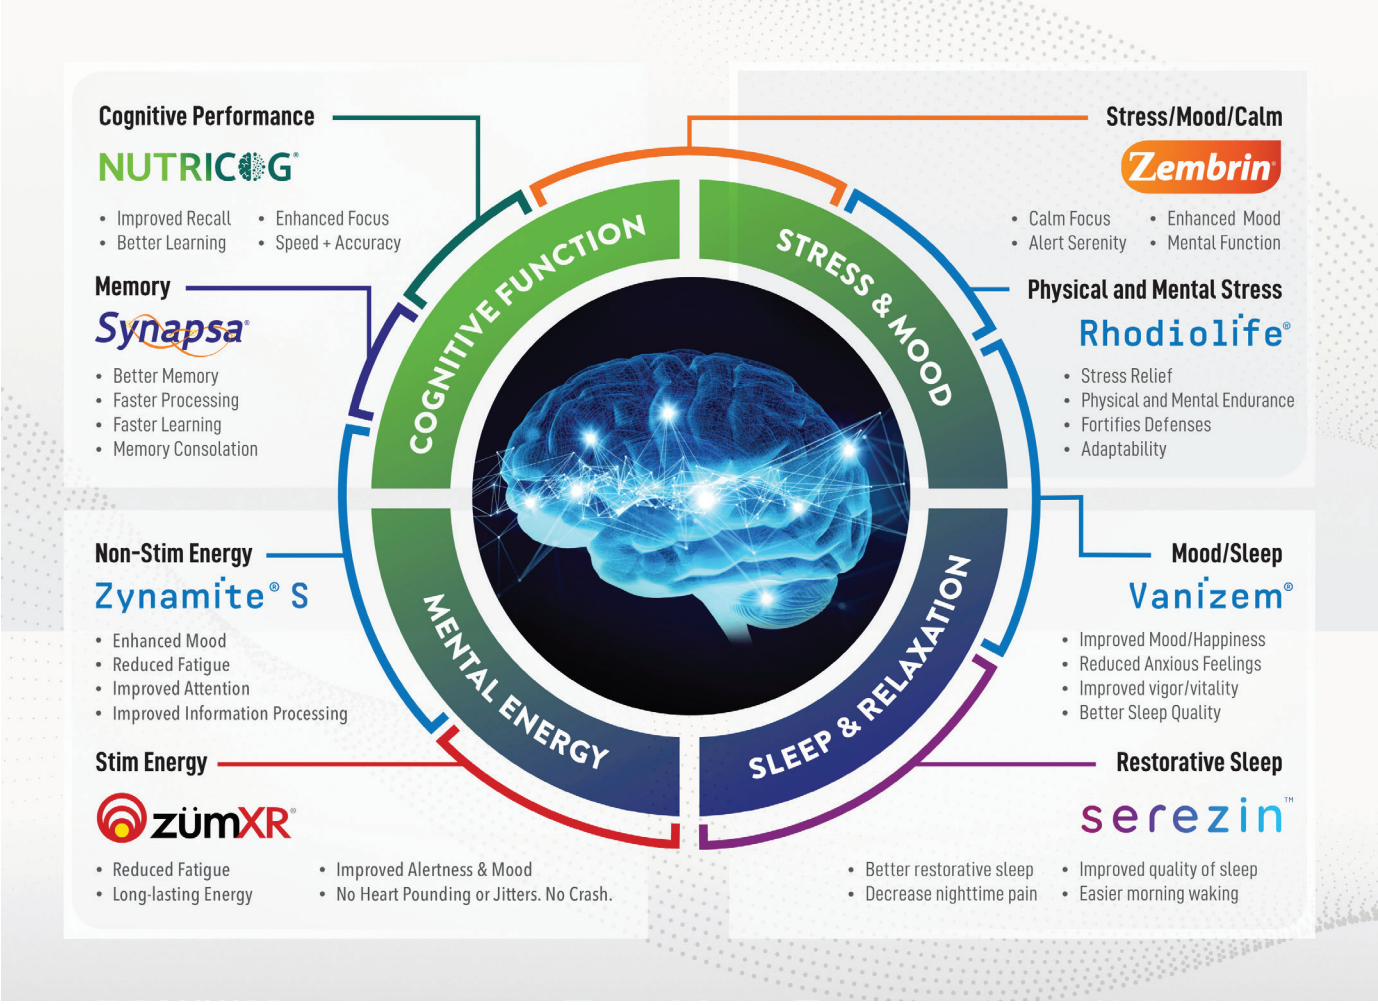
Today, we are seeing an unprecedented level of interest in cognitive support across every demographic and supporting a broad range of lifestyle goals. Consumers are actively seeking everything from enhanced focus and better information processing, to reduced stress, improved mood, faster learning, effective memory, better adaptability and enhanced multitasking.

PLT Health Solutions has a broad, science-backed, formulation-friendly cognitive ingredient platform offering all these benefits. Our ingredients are finding their way into consumer products that support more than just cognitive health – including sports/active nutrition, weight management, immune health and more. Cognitive support can help people feel better about any product they're using, which can help build your brand, enhance compliance and have them coming back for more.

INGREDIENTS THAT ENHANCE PRODUCT EXPERIENCE

PLT is actively engaged in the cognitive health space, with a range of ingredients that support many aspects of cognitive function. Each of our cognitive ingredients offers different strengths in different cognitive areas. There are some benefit overlaps with these ingredients, but based on clinical study endpoints, each can be recommended to meet specific formulation targets.

The PLT Cognitive Health Platform



PLT's cognitive ingredients can power your innovation and help you differentiate your products. Let us show you the science.
